My parents had a family business: a grocery store in Memphis, Michigan. It goes without saying that my siblings and I worked in the store until we left for college. I remember that my parents were always asked to place an ad in various newspapers. Placing an ad in any paper is an expensive proposition. It always made my parents feel good when a customer would come in and say they saw our ad in the paper.

My parents would always say that placing the ad was money well spent.

This little journey down memory lane brings me to my point. You have probably seen the ads that are in our bulletin. Our bulletin advertisers are contacted by the bulletin company, and pay a set amount, depending on the size of the ad, to have their ad placed in our bulletin. As you can imagine, this can be an expensive proposition. By placing their ads in our bulletin, we are able to receive our bulletin every week at no cost to you or the parish.

I would like to thank all the businesses that have renewed their contact with the bulletin company this year, and I would like to thank and welcome those businesses that have now "signed on" for the first time. I thank you and appreciate all you do for the parish of St. Jane Frances de Chantal. Thank you for your generosity.

This brings me to another point: I would ask that we all support the businesses that advertise in our bulletin, and to tell them that we saw their ad in the St. Jane Frances de Chantal bulletin. As an aside, every week a business is highlighted on the parish sign on Ryan Road. I hope the advertisers who have made a commitment to our parish through their advertising will echo the words my parents spoke—that it was "money well spent."

It is important to support small businesses, not only during the pandemic as they try to rebound after several months of being closed, but at all times. It is very difficult to run a small business these days.

Have a great week.

Bon mot: "Education is what remains after one has forgotten everything one learned in school."

RITE OF CHRISTIAN INITIATION OF ADULTS

During the Lenten season, we ask you to pray for our adults seeking Initiation. I would also like to ask you to give them a card with a note of welcome to the parish. A simple Easter card is sufficient, and the note need be nothing more than "Welcome to St. Jane Frances de Chantal." These cards will then be given to the newly Initiated after the Easter Vigil.

This gesture is always appreciated by our newest members and makes them feel welcome and truly part of our parish community. This year we have one candidate, Andrew Stauffer. Please bring your cards of welcome to the Parish Office; we'll see that they get to Andrew. Thank you for your welcoming spirit, and please remember Andrew in your prayers this Lenten season.

HOLY WEEK 2021

As we continue into the last weeks of Lent, we look forward to Holy Week and Easter Sunday! As anticipated, the ongoing pandemic and the need for safe worship will impact our liturgies this year. While some elements may not be celebrated communally, all aspects of the liturgies can be reflected on personally in prayer.

Palm Sunday will begin simply, without a procession. As usual, you will receive a blessed palm branch on the way into the worship space. If you wish to have additional branches for your home, please pick them up on the way out, after all in attendance have received one. We will participate in the Gospel proclamation again this year; a worship aid will be provided. We ask that you keep the aid, as for the safety of all, we cannot reuse them. The Holy Week schedule will be provided on the back of the aid. For those who cannot attend Mass in-person, there will be a table with palms outside Door #1; please feel free to stop by to pick up a palm.

Holy Thursday will not include the Washing of the Feet or a procession to an Altar of Repose. The blessed sacrament will be reposed in the Tabernacle this year. Both Adoration and Evening Prayer have been cancelled. We invite you to reflect on the great message of service to one another that is found in the Washing of the Feet, prayerfully remembering Jesus's commandment to love God and neighbor. Please know that you are welcome to spend time with the Lord any time the parish is open.

Good Friday will include an extra prayer for the end of the pandemic and our adoration of the cross will be placed at the end of the liturgy, rather than before communion. We ask this year that you simply make a profound bow before the cross, without kissing or touching it, again, for the safety of all.

Our Easter Vigil celebration will be joyous, as we are bringing one person into full communion with the Church! We will eliminate the fire, and part of the Service of Light will be omitted, as passing the light on would require breaching a six-foot distance. We are unable to have a reception following this liturgy, as serving food is still not possible.

As we remember the passion, death, and resurrection of Jesus Christ for the salvation of all, we give thanks for this great gift won on the cross and remember all those who have suffered through this pandemic. While our celebrations will look slightly different this year, the spirit with which we come together as a community remains.

HEALTH MINISTRY: COVID-19 VACCINE INFORMATION

Written by our St. Jane Frances de Chantal Parish Nurses.

Yay! You finally got your COVID-19 vaccine! But what exactly can you do now that you couldn't do before?

On March 8, 2021, the CDC published guidelines for those who are fully vaccinated. People are considered fully vaccinated for COVID-19 two weeks after the second dose of the Pfizer or Moderna vaccine, or two weeks after the single-dose Johnson & Johnson vaccine.

Fully vaccinated people can:

Visit with other fully vaccinated people indoors without wearing masks or practicing physical distancing.

Visit indoors with unvaccinated people from a single household who are at low risk for COVID-19 without wearing masks or practicing physical distancing.

Refrain from quarantining and testing following a known exposure if they are asymptomatic.

For now, fully vaccinated people should continue to:

Take precautions in public, like wearing a well-fitted mask and practicing physical distancing.

Wear masks, practice physical distancing, and adhere to other prevention measures when visiting with unvaccinated people who are at increased risk for COVID-19, or who have an unvaccinated household member who is at increased risk for COVID-19.

Avoid medium- and large-sized in-person gatherings.

Get tested if they experience COVID-19 symptoms.

Follow guidance issued by individual employers.

Follow all CDC and health department travel requirements, guidelines, and recommendations.

Of course, as we all have seen during the course of the pandemic, this information can—and probably will—change. For current information, check online at cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-ncov/vaccines/fully-vaccinated-guidance.

While I was studying philosophy at the seminary, one of my instructors made a statement about truth, our individual understanding of it, and how we need to see other peoples' understanding of statements that we might make. To paraphrase: When we believe (to believe is to assent to the truth of a statement wholeheartedly), we "understand" a statement deeply. When we express our belief in that statement, we need to take care, as our expression can be seen and heard as arrogance. Those seeing and hearing of our belief often do not know the level, or depth, to which we may have gone in researching and developing our belief structure. When we come across as arrogant, we can sound insensitive and uncaring, even if our belief extends further into the understanding of a subject than someone else.

Jesus did His best to explain things to the people in ways they understood. He used metaphor, parables, and allegorical examples to help them understand things which they would not otherwise have been able to. He would often use examples that involved fishing, agriculture, and livestock to elucidate an example that helped people understand at a deeper level. This week, we hear the story of the grain of wheat, and how it must cease being a grain of wheat to become something for the good of all, rather than for one.

When I was in my 20s, I fell into a job at a small plastic injection mold build shop. There, the men that I worked with trained me on different machinery that would be used to form and shape different materials to perform functions specific to the mold we were building. These machines included mills, lathes, grinders, EDMs, and CNCs. Spending hours and hours cranking on handles, typing at a computer, and moving great weights of steel and other materials around the shop was par for a regular day in that industry. I keep in touch with a few of the people that I worked with over the years, and like riding a bike, I can still step in to help them out if they ask. One thing I learned is that there is almost a different "language" to be learned when working in many different fields. To speak of wear plates and gibs, or maybe of H-13, D-2, O-1, and A-1 steels, doesn't mean much to the average person, but each designator and term means something very different to someone who is proficient in the machining trades, and each item mentioned is used for different applications.

Jesus could speak in very heady terms full of religious meaning, and often did so when speaking to the "powers that be" of His time. However, Jesus spoke to (and speaks to, right now) the average human walking the street as well. His message to these people, simple in its presentation, is full of insight and understanding; yet it can be unpacked and understood on many different levels for many different purposes.

We have just less than two weeks left of Lent. How have we moved ourselves closer to God during this time? Maybe we can try reading (as Fr Tony suggested in his article last week), Fratelli tutti, or even our Synodal document, Unleash the Gospel, written by our own Archbishop Vigneron. These can speak to each of us on a different level, but they all can help us grow closer to God and to each other. How well do each of us speak with one another? How far do we reach to understand our neighbors and the circumstances they find themselves in?

Let us finish this Lent by growing toward an understanding of one another, so that when it is time to begin our phase of Families of Parishes, we can enter more intelligently and with greater insight of our neighbor.

St. Joseph is a favorite saint of mine, as I've always had an affinity for unsung heroes. Not too much is known about Joseph, but it's certainly appropriate we honor this patient, faithful, and loyal man of God, as we are doing this year—and not just on his March 19th Feast Day this past Friday, but in other very special ways you've already read about.

Think about it: here is this kind and hardworking man, and he happens to fall in love with the young woman who, unbeknownst to him, will bear the Savior of the world. It is bad enough he endured the criticism of those who insist he should quietly divorce Mary for her sins, but he also had to ignore those who demanded the harshest punishment for her "infidelity." Joseph must have been terribly conflicted and confused. Fortunately, an angel was sent to bring some wise and faith-filled counsel.

Just as any exasperated parent would be while raising a child, Joseph was often bewildered by the many things his son did as he went about the work required by His true Father. Through it all, Joseph remained steadfast to his calling. While not much is known about him in his later years, we still respect all he did to raise Jesus—even if he didn't know exactly where the path would lead.

There are few songs dedicated to St. Joseph. A couple months ago, a parishioner came up after Mass with a clipping about St. Joseph as a "just man." There was also a hymn included. The words below were written by Michael Gannon in 1966 and can be sung to the tune of The Church is One Foundation:

Look down to us St. Joseph, protector of our Lord, who followed you through deserts, and gave you blessed rewards; our foes are yet about us; be strength now at our side; be light against the darkness; Saint Joseph, be our guide!

We venerate your justice, the gospels praise your name; you are the saint all humble, who gained eternal fame; in your devoted family our souls in trust confide; direct our way to heaven; Saint Joseph, be our guide.

I also think about Joseph as a carpenter. With his hands, Joseph fashioned, built, and fixed all that was needed to care for his family. I'd imagine he also embraced and comforted Mary and Jesus when they needed it most. I ask you now to take a good look at your hands. What do you see? What do you do with your hands—and do you realize the miracle they are?

My hands have obviously changed from the days of my youth. Yes, they are more weathered, ache a bit more, and aren't as supple as they used to be, but nevertheless, they still work. They allow me to provide music for worship; to type on the computer and write articles and stories; to cut and chop all kinds of foods for cooking; to write notes in cursive; to hold, carry and transport things for family and friends; and to shoot a basketball or grip a golf club—something I was taught over 55 years ago by my dad. I can recall that when dementia took hold of Dad at age 90, if you handed him a golf club, he'd grab it and place his own hands on it as he was trained decades before! Some things, you never forget. And lastly, this most important use of our hands: to provide a human touch. The year-long pandemic has emphasized the necessity of constant attention to our hands and the harm they could potentially spread; however, it has also robbed us of the gift of hugs—of touch at its most basic. As COVID-19 winds down and we return to a more normal way of life, I'm hoping we can all use one of God's greatest gifts to us-our hands-and be free to touch and embrace as we once did.
