St. Augustine, in a famous prayer he composed after forsaking a life and debauchery and dissolute living, experienced a conversion in his life. Augustine found true peace and happiness in a relationship with God. In writing about his rather miraculous transformation Augustine, in his prayer, expressed what impact this had on him. "Late have I loved You, O Beauty, ever ancient, ever new, late have

I loved You! For You were within me, but I was outside, and it was there that I searched for You. In my hardness of heart, I plunged into the lovely things which You created. You were with me, but I was not with You."

"You were within me, but I was outside." Few phrases more accurately describe how we relate to God, life, love and community than that line which comes from Augustine. It is why so many people have so rich of a life in terms of companionship or material possessions and yet are, at the same time, so deeply restless. It's why we oftentimes look everywhere else than our own actual lives for love and delight.

Our restlessness cannot be stilled by a journey outward. It's inward that we need to go. Inside our own actual lives, beyond our restlessness, yearnings and fantasies. God, love, a meaningful life, everything else we search for, is already there.

We find happiness not by doing something extraordinary – great achievements, world fame, leaving our mark in the world, rather, we find happiness in being present to the One who created us in His Spirit and Likeness.

Then he said
to them,
"But who do you say that I am?"
Peter said
in reply,
"The Messiah of God."
Luke 9:20

Through the "Living Your Strengths" resource, teens will also learn to use their individual strengths in their daily lives.

STEWARDSHIP PRAYER

*We thank You, most loving and generous Creator, for the abundance You have bestowed on us, Your servant people.
May we use your gifts to build your kingdom; to help the poor, as You commanded; to bring light to a world in darkness.*

May we be faithful to Your commandments.

Bless the people in our lives that we may help each other grow in your love.

We pray in union with Jesus Christ and the Holy Spirit.

Amen.

PARTICIPATING IN THE LIFE OF OUR PARISH

Celebrating the Eucharist means more than just attending Mass for one hour on Saturday or Sunday. We are called to participate in the life of our parish communion. Christ calls us to make His presence known in concrete ways. That call requires involvement, and the gift we give of ourselves blesses the particular community of Christians we are involved with and blesses those whom our parish hopes to touch.

Christ has called us to use our gifts “to love and serve the Lord” — to be sent forth. Sharing our giftedness by actively participating in the life of our parish communion in an expression of stewardship. Christians contribute their talents in whatever way they can. A commitment to stewardship motivates us to use our gifts to serve our community of faith. If we are going to love and serve God’s people and thus God, a particular place and specific group of people help assure that such service is real and responsible.

“There are different gifts but the same Spirit; there are different services but the same Lord; and there are different activities but it is the same God who activates all of them in everyone. To each person the manifestation of the Spirit is given for the common good”.

HEALTH MINISTRY*STRESS/SMOKING AND BLOOD PRESSURE

In addition to the emotional discomfort we feel when faced with a stressful situation, our bodies react by releasing stress hormones (adrenaline and cortisol) into the blood. These hormones prepare the body for the “fight or flight response” by making the heart beat faster and constricting blood vessels to get ore blood to the core of the body instead of the extremities. Constriction of blood vessels and increase in heart rate does raise blood pressure, but only temporarily; when the stress reaction goes away, blood pressure returns to its pre-stress level. This is called situational stress, and its effects are generally short-lived and disappear when the stressful event is over.

Give yourself enough time to get things done. Time management works wonders for reducing stress. Don’t try to pack too much into every moment.

Learn to say “no”. Don’t promise too much. Reduce the amount of tension by having a shorter list of items that ust be done. This may require you to reevaluate priorities and make difficult choices, but everyone must learn to live within manageable limits. (You can’t control all the outside events in your life, but you can change how you handle them emotionally and psychologically. Try to learn to accept things you can’t change. You don’t have to solve all of life’s problems. Think about problems under your control and make a plan to solve them.)

Know your stress triggers.

Practice gratitude. Change how you respond to difficult situations, focusing on the positive, not the negative. Expressing gratitude to others can also boost your level of feeling good about life and reduce stressful thoughts.

Know what brings you pleasure and find ways to enjoy the experience. Relaxing is important, even if you are busy. Take 15 to 20 minutes a day to sit quietly, breathe deeply and think of a peaceful picture.

Spend time developing supportive and nurturing relationships.

Give yourself the gift of good self maintenance. Engage in physical activity regularly. Do what you enjoy.

Don’t overeat, don’t consume alcohol or smoke.

While smoking has not been conclusively proven to cause high blood pressure, each cigarette you smoke temporarily increases your blood pressure for many minutes after you finish.

Smoking and exposure to secondhand smoke have many other effects on your cardiovascular and overall health. These effects include fatty buildups in arteries, several types of cancer and chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (lung problems). Atherosclerosis (buildup of fatty substances in the arteries) is a chief contributor to the high number of deaths from smoking. Many studies detail the evidence that cigarette smoking is a major cause of coronary heart disease, which leads to a heart attack. Smoking is the most important preventable cause of premature death in the United States. For your overall health and to reduce your risk of a heart attack and stroke, avoid all forms of tobacco as well as second hand smoke.
