SIXTEENTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

JULY 19, 2020

FR. TONY SULKOWSKI
Pastor
FrTony@sjfparish.org
Ext. 102

During the early stage of the pandemic, I had the opportunity to do a great deal of reading. One of the books that I read was written by Father Jack Castlelot. Fr. Castlelot was a world-renowned biblical scholar. His field of expertise was the New Testament. He wrote extensively about the books in the New Testament and was one of many biblical scholars whose examination of the Sacred Scriptures was compiled in the Jerome Biblical Commentary—a commentary used by those who are studying the Sacred Scriptures in depth.

As a young seminarian at St. John’s Provincial Seminary in Plymouth, Michigan, I and those studying for the priesthood had the honor of being taught by Fr. Castlelot. He shared his knowledge of the Sacred Scriptures and “broke open the Word” for us.

I recall the first day that our class arrived at St. John’s Provincial Seminary. We had a rector’s conference that evening, and Fr. Castlelot went to the lectern and began to speak. He said, “Gentlemen, when and if you are ordained priests, there are two things you will have to deal with: namely, ambiguity and change.”

As I reflect upon my thirty-four years of priesthood, I can honestly say there has been a lot of ambiguity and change within the Church as well as in society. There have also been some challenging and disappointing times.

We all experience the ambiguity and change that life presents to us. We can’t avoid it. It’s a part of our life journey. The challenge that it places before us is this: do we see ambiguity and change as an opportunity to grow in our faith and in our understanding of the present situation? Hopefully, we do.

If there is one thing that this pandemic has taught us, it is that life is uncertain and that we are a people of hope. The Scriptures give us that hope to see beyond our present situation. St. Pope John XXIII echoed that thought when he said, “It is not that the Gospel has changed; rather, it is that we have begun to understand it better.”

Bon mot: “Sacred Scripture is set up as a kind of lantern for us in the night of life.”

—St. Gregory I the Great, Pastoral Care, c.590

Carpe Diem,

Fr. Tony

People often ask me about musical inspiration and where I find it. It can come from anywhere. To be truly inspired, you have to go beyond yourself and what you know and actually listen to what God might be telling you. In this world of noise and confusion, sometimes it is difficult to stop, meditate, or even just slow down.

Through the years, there are certain songs I’ve been asked to sing that are classics. With some titles, I walk a tight line as to whether they are appropriate for Church or not. However, every song in a hymnbook had to be evaluated at one time or another to determine its value for inclusion. Just because a song isn’t in a book doesn’t mean it isn’t proper. My yardstick? I study the words. If they’re meaningful, respectful, and speak to the heart, I believe it’s okay to use.

Here’s one example: I’ve performed The Rose probably hundreds of times, mostly at funerals—even at my own mother’s service in 1984. It was recorded most famously by Bette Midler in 1979 for her movie of the same name. I hated the song at first. Listening to the radio, the first piano chords would come on, and I’d switch the station, fast.

Then one rainy evening, circa 1983, I had just landed in Chicago to attend a sales meeting for Jockey International. I’d picked up a rental car and was trying to navigate the controls on an unfamiliar car in an unfamiliar city in a blinding rainstorm—and that included fussing with the radio. And then that song came on. Ugh! It had to go, so I hit scan and listened to the other stations. As the radio circled back, I caught the tail end of the song, and thought, “Thank God; it’s over!”

But then the announcer did something I’ve never heard before or since. He said, “You know, it’s a bad night out there, and this is such an inspirational song, so I’m going to play it again. This time, I want you all to really listen to the words.” And then he did—and I did. I was blown away by the words. After I returned home, I learned the song by ear and played it for the next funeral at St. Rita Church in Detroit. Fr. John Nowlan loved it, and from then on, asked me to do the song frequently, as did Desmond Funeral Home, where I’ve been playing funerals since the 70s. It became a must-have for so many parishioners.

I don’t believe I’ve done The Rose here at St. Jane Frances de Chantal, but I shall in the next set of songs for the Digital Music Series. Meanwhile, here are the words; you’ll never look at a rose the same way again.

“Some say love—it is a river that drowns the tender reed; some say love it is a razor that leaves your soul to bleed; some say love—it is a hunger, an endless aching need.

“I say love it is a flower, and you, its only seed. It’s the heart, afraid of breaking, that never learns to dance; it’s the dream, afraid of waking, that never takes the chance; it’s the one who won’t be taken, who cannot seem to give, and the soul, afraid of dying, that never learns to live.

“When the night has been too lonely, and the road has been too long, and you think that love is only for the lucky and the strong, just remember, in the winter, far beneath the bitter snow, lies the seed that, with the sun’s love, in the spring, becomes the rose.”

In today's Gospel, the long version, we hear three parables—one long and two short—that serve to help us understand the longer parable. I'd like to share a word about parables.

A parable is a story that assists the listener in understanding a moral truth or a principle of faith. This is a particular style of literature, different from historical fact, legend, sermon, or other literary genres. It is important to understand the genre of parable so that the message is not taken literally or factually when it is not historically accurate or not an actual event that occurred.

A parable allows for the teaching of difficult concepts, making analogies that simplify and speak directly to the student. In Matthew's Gospel, Jesus is teaching about the "Kingdom of Heaven." The Jewish people to whom Jesus was speaking would have wanted to know who was to gain eternal life and how to achieve it. Jesus tells them through the parables that He is the sower, the world is the field, and the children of the Kingdom are the good seed. He extends His mercy to all, the good and the evil, but will winnow out the evil at the end of time.

This parable, like many told in the Gospel of Matthew, is intended to educate the Jewish people about the way to salvation, which would have been challenging, as it was different from what they believed in their faith. In His parables, Jesus uses examples that His listeners would relate to easily. This helped them to understand.

The examples used to clarify his message are often timeless. We can change some simple aspect of the lessons and make the parable equally valuable for teaching the contemporary listener.

This parable stands the test of time, as we still plant seeds and deal with the invasion of weeds. Like the people who originally heard Jesus speak this parable, we seek to know the path to the Kingdom of Heaven. From these parables today, we know that God has planted us with His grace, and that grace will lead us home.

OUR LADY OF MOUNT CARMEL

Article and image courtesy of catholiccurrent.org.

Feast Day: July 16th

Mount Carmel, which juts out into the Mediterranean near Haifa, Israel, has been considered a sacred place since the prophet Elijah built an altar there in his contest with the prophets of Baal. The Carmel headland is traditionally associated with the beginnings of the Carmelite order around 1195, when a group of lay hermits formed a community there. Mary had been honored there as early as the fifth century, and by the twelfth century, Mount Carmel had become a site of Marian devotion. The Carmelites chose Mary as their protectress and dedicated their oratory on Mount Carmel to her. Our Lady of Mount Carmel is the patron of Bolivia and Chile.

Well-known Carmelites include St. Teresa of Avila, St. John of the Cross, and St. Therese of Lisieux—all of whom were powerhouses of spiritual writing.

A PRAYER TO COMBAT THE PANDEMIC

Adapted from mycatholic.life.

As COVID-19 cases increase, Lord, we ask you for health and healing:

*Most Merciful and Triune God,
We come to You in our weakness.
We come to You in our fear.
We come to You with trust,
for You alone are our hope.*

*We place before You the disease present in our world.
Bring healing to those who are ill.
Protect those who are most at risk.
Give comfort to those who have lost a loved one.
Welcome those who have died into Your Eternal Home.*

*Stabilize our communities.
Unite us in our compassion.
Remove all fear from our hearts.
Fill us with confidence in Your care. Amen.*
